Part II – Compensation for injury (ss. 5-36)

5. Employer's liability for compensation for death or incapacity resulting from accident

- (1) If in any employment personal injury by accident arising out of and in the course of the employment is caused to a worker, his employer shall be liable to pay compensation in accordance with the provisions of this Act:

Provided that—

- (a) the employer shall not be liable under this Act in respect of any injury, other than an injury resulting in permanent partial incapacity, which does not incapacitate the worker for a period of at least three consecutive days from earning full wages at the work at which he was employed; and
- (b) if it is proved that the injury to a worker is attributable to the serious and wilful misconduct of that worker, any compensation claimed in respect of that injury shall be disallowed:

Provided that where the injury results in death or serious and permanent incapacity, the Court on a consideration of all the circumstances may award the compensation provided for by this Act or such part thereof as it shall think fit.

- (2) For the purposes of this Act an accident shall be deemed to arise out of and in the course of a worker employment—
 - (a) where death or serious and permanent incapacity of the worker results from such accident, notwithstanding that the worker was, at the time when the accident happened, acting in contravention of any statutory or other regulation applicable to his employment or of any orders given by or on behalf of his employer, or that he was acting without instruction from his employer, if such act was done by the worker for the purposes of and in connection with his employer's trade or business; or
 - (b) where the accident happened in or about any premises at which the worker was for the time being employed for the purposes of his employer's trade or business, if it happened while the worker was taking steps, in an actual or supposed emergency in or about those premises, to rescue, succour or protect persons who were, or were thought to be or likely to be, injured or imperilled, or to avert or minimise damage to any property owned by the employer or for which the employer was answerable to the owner.
- (3) No compensation shall be payable under this Act in respect of any incapacity or death resulting from a deliberate self-injury.

- (4) No compensation shall be payable under this Act in respect of any incapacity or death resulting from personal injury, if the worker has at any time represented in writing to the employer that he was not suffering or had not previously suffered from that or a similar injury, knowing that the representation was false.

6. Compensation in fatal cases

Where death results from the injury—

- (a) if the worker leaves any dependants wholly dependent on his earnings, the amount of compensation shall be a sum equal to forty-one months' earnings or eighty-three thousand shillings, whichever is less; but where in respect of the same accident compensation has been paid under the provisions of section 7 or 8 there shall be deducted from the sum payable under this paragraph any sums so paid as compensation;
- (b) if the worker does not leave any dependants wholly dependent on his earnings, but leaves any dependants in part so dependent the amount of compensation shall be such sum, not exceeding in any case the amount payable under paragraph (a) of this section, as may be determined by the Court to be reasonable and proportionate to the injury to such dependants;
- (c) if the worker leaves no dependants, the reasonable expenses of the burial of the deceased worker, not exceeding the sum of five hundred shillings, shall be paid by the employer.

7. Compensation in the case of permanent total incapacity

- (1) Where permanent total incapacity results from the injury, the amount of compensation shall be a sum equal to fifty-four months' earnings:

Provided that in no case shall the amount of compensation in respect of permanent total incapacity be greater than one hundred and eight thousand shillings but not less than two thousand shillings.

- (2) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (1) of this section, where any injury results in permanent total incapacity of such a nature that the injured worker must have the constant help of another person, additional compensation shall be paid amounting to one half of the amount which is otherwise payable under this section.

8. Compensation in the case of permanent partial incapacity

- (1) Where permanent partial incapacity results from the injury, the amount of compensation shall be—

- (a) in the case of an injury specified in the Second Schedule to this Act, such percentage of fifty-four months' earnings as is specified therein as being the percentage of the loss of earning capacity caused by that injury; and
- (b) in the case of an injury not specified in the Second Schedule to this Act, such percentage of forty-eight months' earnings as is proportionate to the loss of earning capacity permanently caused by the injury:

Provided that in no case shall the amount of compensation in respect of permanent partial incapacity be greater than one hundred and eight thousand shillings but not less than such percentage of two thousand shillings as represents the loss of earning capacity arrived at in accordance with paragraph (a) or paragraph (b) of this subsection.

- (2) Where more injuries than one are caused by the same accident, the amount of compensation payable under the provisions of this section shall be aggregated, but not so in any case as to exceed the amount which would have been payable if permanent total incapacity had resulted from the injuries.

9. Compensation in the case of temporary incapacity

- (1) Where temporary incapacity, whether total or partial, results from the injury, the compensation shall be the periodical payments hereinafter mentioned payable at such intervals as may be agreed upon or as the court may order, or a lump sum calculated accordingly having regard to the probable duration, and probable changes in the degree, of the incapacity and such periodical payments shall be a monthly payment of half the difference between the monthly earnings which the worker was earning at the time of the accident and the monthly earnings which he is earning or is capable of earning in some suitable employment or business after the accident:

Provided that—

- (a) [Repealed by Ord. No. 60 of 1966 s. 9]
- (b) neither the aggregate of the periodical payments nor the lump sum payable under the provisions of this subsection shall exceed the lump sum which would be payable in respect of the same degree of incapacity under the provision of subsection (1) of section 7 or section 8, as the case may be, if the incapacity were permanent;
- (c) the period covered by hospitalisation or absence from duty certified necessary by a medical practitioner shall be regarded as a period of temporary total incapacity irrespective of the outcome of the injury and any period subsequent thereto but preceding final assessment of disability shall be regarded as a period of temporary partial incapacity, both periods being continuous with each other, variations in payments notwithstanding, and the maximum duration of periodical payments under this section shall not exceed ninety-six months;
- (d) in the event of death or permanent incapacity following after temporary incapacity, no deduction shall be made from the lump sum payable under section 6, 7 or 8 by reason of periodical payments or a lump sum payment having been made under this section.
- (2) In fixing the lump sum or periodical payments payable under subsection (1) of this section the court may deduct the value of any payment, allowance or benefit including the value of any food, fuel or quarters, which the worker may receive from the employer during the period of incapacity:

Provided that the amount payable after such deduction shall not, if a periodical payment, be less than a monthly payment of half the difference between the basic wage which the worker was earning at the time of the accident and the basic wage he is earning or is capable of earning in some suitable employment or business after the accident, or shall not, if a lump sum, be less than a sum calculated accordingly having regard to the probable duration and probable changes in the degree of the incapacity.

- (3) For the purposes of subsection (2) "basic wage" means the worker's monthly earnings calculated in accordance with the provisions of section 10 less the value of any food, fuel or quarters received by the worker from the employer at the date of the accident or cash received in lieu thereof.
- (4) Upon the ceasing of the incapacity before the date on which any periodical payment falls due, there shall be payable in respect of that period a sum proportionate to the duration of the incapacity in that period.
- (5) Where a worker in receipt of periodical payments under the provisions of this section intends to leave the neighbourhood in which he was employed, for the purpose of residing elsewhere, he shall give notice of such intention to the employer who may agree with the worker for the redemption of such periodical payments by a lump sum, or for the continuance of such periodical payments and if the employer and the worker are unable to agree, either party may apply to the Court which shall have jurisdiction to order such redemption and to determine the amount to be paid or to order the continuance of the periodical payments:

Provided that any lump sum so ordered to be paid together with the periodical payments already made to the worker shall not exceed the lump sum which would be payable in respect of the same degree of incapacity under the provisions of subsection (1) of section 7 or section 8, as the case may be, if the incapacity were permanent.

- (6) If a worker in receipt of periodical payments under the provisions of this section leaves the neighbourhood in which he was employed, for the purpose of residing elsewhere, without giving notice as provided in subsection (5) of this section, or having given such notice leaves the neighbourhood as aforesaid without having come to an agreement with his employer for the redemption or continuance of such periodical payments, or without having made an application to the Court under the provisions of subsection (5) of this section, he shall not be entitled to any benefits under the provisions of this Act during or in respect of the period of his absence and if the period of such absence exceeds six months, the worker shall cease to be entitled to any benefits under the provisions of this Act.

10. Method of calculating earnings

- (1) For the purposes of this Act the monthly earning of a worker shall be computed in such manner as is best calculated to give the rate per month at which the worker was being remunerated at the date of the accident:

Provided that—

- (a) where by reason of the shortness of the time during which the worker has been in the employment of his employer or the casual nature of the employment, or the terms of his employment, it is impracticable to compute the rate of remuneration in the manner aforementioned, regard may be had to the average monthly amount which, during the twelve months previous to the accident, was being earned by a person of similar earning capacity in the same grade employed at the same work by the same employer, or, if there is no person so employed, by a person of similar earning capacity in the same grade employed in the same class of employment and in the same district; and
 - (b) for the purposes of assessing compensation payable in the case of permanent incapacity—
 - (i) where the worker was, at the date of the accident, under the apparent age of eighteen years, his earnings shall be deemed to be such amount as, had he not met with the accident, he would probably have received upon attaining the age of eighteen years, or at the end of a period of five years after the accident, whichever calculation is more favourable to the worker; and
 - (ii) where the worker was, at the date of the accident, employed under a contract of apprenticeship, improvership or learnership, his earnings shall be deemed to be such amount as, had he not met with the accident, he would probably have received upon the completion of his apprenticeship, improvership, or learnership.
- (2) For the purposes of subsection (1) of this section employment by the same employer shall be taken to mean employment by the same employer in the grade in which the worker was employed at the time of the accident, uninterrupted by absence from work due to illness or any other unavoidable cause.
 - (3) Where the worker had entered into concurrent contracts of service with two or more employers under which he worked at one time for one such employer and at another time for another such employer, his monthly earnings shall be computed as if his earnings under all such contracts were earnings in the employment of the employer for whom he was working at the time of the accident:

Provided that the earnings of the worker under the concurrent contract shall be disclosed to any other employer at the time of his engagement with the latter and shall be taken into account only so far as the worker is incapacitated from performing the concurrent contract.
 - (4) Upon request of the worker to the employer liable to pay compensation, that employer shall furnish in writing a list of the earnings which have been earned by that worker upon which the amount of the monthly earnings may be calculated for the purposes of this section.

11. Persons entitled to compensation

- (1) The compensation shall be payable to or for the benefit of the worker, or, where death results from the injury, to or for the benefit of his dependants as provided by this Act.
- (2) Where there are both total and partial dependants nothing in this Act shall be construed as preventing the compensation being allotted partly to the total and partly to the partial dependants.
- (3) Where a dependant dies before a claim in respect of death is made under this Act, or, if a claim has been made, before an order for the payment of compensation has been made, the legal personal representative of the dependant shall have no right to payment of compensation, and the claim for compensation shall be dealt with as if that dependant had died before the worker.

12. Distribution of compensation

- (1) Compensation payable where the death of a worker has resulted from an injury shall be paid into court, and the court may order any sum so paid in to be apportioned among the dependants of the deceased worker or any of them in such proportion as the court thinks fit, or in the discretion of the court, to be allotted to any one such dependant, and the sum so allotted to any dependant shall be paid to him or be invested, applied or otherwise dealt with for his benefit in such manner as the court thinks fit.
- (2) Where, on application being made in accordance with rules made under this Act, it appears to the Court that, on account of the variation of the circumstances of the various dependants, or for any other sufficient cause, an order made under subsection (1) ought to be varied, the court may make such order for the variation of the former order as in the circumstances of the case the court may think just.
- (3) Compensation payable under the provisions of section 7 or 8 and lump sums payable under the provisions of section 9 shall be paid into court, and the court may order any sum so paid in to be paid to the person entitled or to be invested, applied or otherwise dealt with for his benefit in such manner as the court thinks fit.
- (4) Nothing in this section shall prevent an employer from making any payment to a worker pending the settlement or determination of the claim and the court may order that the whole or any part of such payment shall be deducted from the amount of compensation payable to him under the provisions of this section.
- (5) Any other compensation payable under this Act may be paid to the worker or into court and when so paid it shall be paid by the court to the person entitled.
- (6) The receipt of the presiding magistrate shall be a sufficient discharge in respect of any amount paid to the Court under the provisions of this Act.
- (7) Any order or directions of the Court under this section shall be final.

13. Requirements as to notice of accident and claim for compensation

Proceedings for the recovery under this Act of compensation for an injury shall not be maintained unless notice of the accident in the prescribed form has been given by or on behalf of the worker as soon as practicable after the happening thereof and before the worker has voluntarily left the employment in which he was injured, and unless the claim for compensation with respect to such accident has been made within six months from the occurrence of the accident causing the injury or, in the case of death, within six months from the time of death:

Provided that—

- (a) the want of, or any defect or inaccuracy in, such notice shall not be a bar to the maintenance of such proceedings if the employer is proved to have had knowledge of the accident from any other source at or about the time of the accident, or if it is found in the proceedings for settling the claim that the employer is not, or would not, if a notice or an amended notice were then given and the hearing postponed, be prejudiced in his defence by the want, defect or inaccuracy, or that such want, defect or inaccuracy was occasioned by mistake or other reasonable cause;

- (b) the failure to make a claim for compensation within the period specified under this section shall not be a bar to the maintenance of such proceedings—
- (i) in the case of a worker whose earnings do not exceed six hundred shillings per month; or
 - (ii) in the case of any other worker, if it is found that the failure was occasioned by mistake or other reasonable cause, so, however, that no proceedings for the recovery of compensation shall be maintained unless the claim for compensation is made within a period of three years from the date of the accident.

14. Medical examination and treatment

- (1) Where a worker has given notice of an accident, the employer shall, as soon as reasonably possible after the date on which notice has been given, arrange to have him medically examined free of charge by a medical practitioner; and any worker who is in receipt of periodical payments under section 9, shall submit himself for such medical examination from time to time, as may be required by the employer.
- (2) The worker shall, when required, attend upon the medical practitioner at the time and place notified by the employer or the medical practitioner, provided such time and place are reasonable.
- (3) In the event of the worker being, in the opinion of any medical practitioner, unable or not in a fit state to attend to the medical practitioner for examination, that fact shall be notified to the employer, and the medical practitioner conducting the examination as required by subsection (1) of this section shall fix a reasonable time and place for a personal examination and shall send him notice accordingly.
- (4) If the worker fails to submit himself for such examination, his right to compensation shall be suspended until such examination has taken place; and if such failure extends for a period of fifteen days from the date when the worker was required to submit himself for examination under the provisions of subsections (2) or (3) of this section, as the case may be, no compensation shall be payable, unless the Court is satisfied that there was reasonable cause for such failure.
- (5) A worker shall be entitled to have his own medical practitioner present at such examination at his own expense.
- (6) During a period of temporary total incapacity, the employer shall arrange to submit the worker for normal medical treatment by either the employer's medical practitioner or the worker's medical practitioner approved by the employer, at the expense of the employer and such normal medical treatment shall include any special treatment which the medical practitioner may advise the worker to undergo.
- (7) If the worker has failed to submit himself for treatment by a medical practitioner when so required under the provisions of subsection (6) of this section, or having submitted himself for such treatment has disregarded the instructions of such medical practitioner, then if it is proved that such failure or disregard was unreasonable in the circumstances of the case and that the injury has been aggravated thereby, the injury and resulting incapacity shall be deemed to be of the same nature and duration as they might reasonably have been expected to be if the worker had submitted himself for treatment by, and duly carried out the instructions of, such medical practitioner, and compensation, if any, shall be payable accordingly.
- (8) Where under the provisions of this section a right of compensation is suspended, no compensation shall be payable in respect of the period of suspension.
- (9) Notwithstanding other provisions under this section, where a claim for compensation is made in respect of the death of a worker, then if the worker failed to submit himself to examination by a medical practitioner when so required under the provisions of this section or having submitted
